The Uninese Embassy-The Trials of Correspondent-Emigration. NEW YORK, July 1.

Mr. Burlingame and the Chinese Embassy have again taken up their quarters at the Westminster Hotel, where they will remain quiet until Monday next, when they will leave the city for Auburn, by invitation of Secretary Sew. ard. The gentlemen of the embassy are much fatigued from constant travel and excitement, and propose taking a rest between this and Monday. On their departure for Auburn they will take the day boat up the Hudson river, in order to obtain a view of the splendid scenery. They will go to Niagara Falls from Auburn, and from thence to Saratoga and Lake George. They will then proceed to Boston, where the distinguished visitors will pay quite a lengthy wisit. From Boston they will return again to this city, and remain until they take their departure for Europe, which will be about the 1st of September.

A singular instance of the trials to which New York correspondents are sometimes subject, came before the Fifty-seventh street Police Court yesterday, where a merchant doing business in South street was held to bail to answer to a charge of assault and battery preferred against him by a young up-town physician. It seems that the Doctor, in his correspondence for a Boston paper, had alluded to several members of the late Athenseum Club. The defendant took umbrage at certain expressions used in the Doctor's letter, and especially to an imaginary dialogue which mentioned one "Angelica." Thinking the paragraph had reference to his own affairs, and ascertaining who the author was, he proceeded to the Doctor's office, and without either making or demanding a satisfactory ex planation, assaulted him. Before the commission of the assault, according to the Doctor's account, the other man had been assured by a gentleman authorized to make the statement. that the letter in question had not the most distant reference to him. The plaintiff denies that he had ever known of the existence of such parties as the defendant or "Angelica," The Indicial tribunals will now be called upon to determine whether the word "Angelica," used as a synonym for "Dulcinea" or "sweetheart," is to be barred, henceforth, in American literature, except by special permit of an individual The Commissioners of Emigration have given ter of the new institution-the Labor Exchange. The report is for the half year ending July 1:- From January 1 to July 1 the Labor Exchange procured employment for 12,951 emr grants, to wit: 7111 males, 5840 females. Of the males, 1180 were mechanics; 5931 agricultural and common laborers; of the females, 294 were skilled laborers, (seamstresses, cooks, laundresses, etc), and 5546 were common house servants. Of the emigrants employed by the instrumentality of this institution, 9425 could read and write; to wit: 5635 males, 3790 females; 3526 could not read or write, to wit: 1476 males, 2050 temales. Among these emigrants provided with employment were 254 entire families, comprising 721 persons. These emigrants found employment in the fol-

Amother Attempt to Raise the British Frigate Hussar, which Sank in 1780 With 900,000 Guiness and Eighty American Prisoners on Board. From the N. Y. Tribune of to-day.

On the night of the 25th of November, 1780, the British Irigate Hussar, while endeavoring to escape through Hell Gate from the French fleet, then entering the harbor at the Narrows, struck on what is known as Pot Rock. The com-mandant of the frigate did not think his vessel seriously injured, and, atter clearing the rock, sailed on in the hope of reaching the Atlantic through the Sound, but had only made about a mile when he found the Hussar to be in a sinking condition.

The commander then turned her head inshore, but when about seventy-five yards from the beach, the stern suddenly went under water. A boat's crew landed a hawser, which was at-tached to the bow, and made it fast to a tall and stout oak tree that grew on the bank, in the hope of drawing the ship into shallow water by the aid of the cap-tan. The frigate soon filled, however, and as the timbers of the vessel and hawser proved stronger than the tree, neither of the ormer gave way, and the tree broke off short at the roots, and was dragged into the water as the vessel went down in thirdeen fathoms. The officers and crew were saved, but their effects and the immense treasure on board, amounting to some 900,000 guineas, and about eighty prisoners (Americans), manacled, were carried down with the ship. In due course of time a court martial was ordered by the British Admirally when all the officers testified to the circumstances attending the di-aster and asserted that the treasure contained in the "trut" of the ship, and secured by a brick casing, was allowed to remain as she sunk until 1734, in which year the British Government sent over two brigs; but after two years of fruitiess labor, the attempt to raise the wreck was abandoned for the time. A second attempt was made by the British Government to recover the treasure in 1819, but the American Government treasure in and commanded those lab ring in the interest of the English Government to desist, very properly regarding all British yessels then in our periy regarding all British vessels then in our waters as prizes of war. At different periods mater as prizes of war. At the transfer the mater wards, attempts were made to raise the wreck and secure the moneys, by American wreckers, but all proved futile. At length, in 1848, the "Frigate Hussar Company" formed, and every summer since, the vessel is daily visited by the submarine operators, under the direction of Mr. G. W. Taylor. The treasure remains, however, undiscovered; but two of the decks have been removed 27 of the guns raised, also between 3000 and 4000 of the can-non balls. Swords belonging to the officers, and a number of guineas, supposed also to be their property, were found in the cabic. Bottles containing liquor have been from time to time taken up. Manacies with pieces of bone attached, have likewise been obtained. The recovery of these articles, however, have not enured to the pecuniary advantage of the company, but their recovery has demonstrated be-your question that the exact location of the wreck is known. While these investigations were progressing, inventors oc-cupied themselves in endeavois to improve apperatus for the purpose of making submarine explorations; and in 1866, Mr. Wilham Monk Storm obtained a patent at Washing on for what he calls the "Improved Submarine Ex-plorer." Admiral Farragut endorsed it; Mr. William W. W. Woot, a chief engineer of the United States Navy, spoke of it in approving terms, as also Mr. Sackersdorf, the engineer of the New York Street Department. This new explorer is 10.6 feet in height, and terminates in a cone, has a diameter of 9 feet, and weighs 32,000 pounds, and gives a space of 204 cubic feet 32,000 pounds, and gives a space of 204 cubic feet for the three or four men who may be working in it, contains 135 cubic feet of compressed air, has two cylinders, each two feet in diameter, for compressed air, which give buoyancy to the bell, and enable the operator to regulate its movements in conjunction with a water-ballast capacity of 109 cubic feet.

Yesterday Mr. Owen Kenny, the operator, and two workmen went down in the Explorer, in the presence of Dr. J. A. Welsse (who has an in the presence of Dr. J. A. weisse (who has an interest in it and also in the recovery of the reasure), Mr. Taylor, who has superintended the operations since 1848, and a party of gentiemen, invited to witness the movements of the "Improved Submarine Explorer." Fifteen minutes were occupied in making the descent of 70 feet and a like time in a line to the control of 70 feet, and a like time in coming to the surface, after the men had remained on the wreck one hour. They brought up with them a bag of dirt, which upon being washed through a sieve, yielded some fragments of iron, a few small stones, recognized as what is known to seamen as English shore ballast, and the flint of an old shioned musket. The men also reported that they twice struck the wood of the ship, about ten feet from where they went down. The experiences of these men disproves the commonly-accepted theory that the waters are still at a depth exceeding 14 feet. They assert that the when not resting on the bottom is constantly subjected to a swaying movement of greater or lesser degree. It is contemplaced to remove the sloop from which the operations are conducted about ten feet further from the shore, so as to bring the diving-bell directly over the timbers discovered yesterday, and to complete arrangements for the men to work four hours in the forencon and an equal time in the after-Mr. Taylor is confident that his efforts to recover the treasure will be ultimately crowned with success, and Dr. Weisse believes the treasure will be recovered through the agency of the "Improved Submarine Explorer."

The New Tax Law.

The fellowing letter, deciding a point at issue which was raised by the new Internal Tax bill, was addressed to Homer Franklin, Assessor of the Ninth New York District, by Commissioner

WASHINGTON, July 29 .- SIR: - In your letter of the 28th inst. you state that application for license as distiller is made, under act of July 20, by a party having a lease duly recorded some two years ago, in which it is expressly stipulated that "the premises hereby let are to be used for the erection of a distillery," and that the applicant claims this to be a sufficient consent for the purposes of the new law. You state further that you have decided adversely to his claim, holding that the consent must be given or property appraised and bonded as prescribed by the act, and at the applicant's request, you submit the question to me. Your decision The written consent required of the owner should be one which has been given since the passage of the act, and it must be filed with the Assessor. In such cases you will be careful to require also the consent and stipulation called for by section eight, from any mortgage, dements, creditor, or other person having s ien; to which end you will require the applicant to furnish to you the official searches from the proper officer, showing conclusively what, if any, mortgage, judgments, or other liens there are upon the property. I would take this occasion to state that in the case of either of bonds provided for by the seventh and eighth sections of the act of July 20, 1868, the Assessor should require, before approval, that the sureties shall be shown conclusively to be persons possessed of unincumbered real estate in the county in which the distillery is situated, or in an adjoining county in the same State, at least equal in value to the amount of the penal sum of the bond. Respectfully,

E. A. Rollins, Commissioner.

The Alaska Purchase.

Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, July 31 .- Just previous to the Cabinet meeting to day Baron De Stoecki, the Russian Minister, in company with the acting Secretary of State, Hunter, had a private interview with the President. It is understood to have been about the Alaska purchase.

Official Nominations. There were a large number of nominations pending before the Senate at the ajdournment, An impression prevails that if the Senate takes a recess the nominations will hold over until the reassembling. This is a mistake. There is a rule of the Senate which provides that if the Senate takes a recess or adjourns for more than thirty days, all nominations pending at the time of such recess or adjournment fall at the expiration of thirty days.

Cabinet Meeting. The regular Cabinet meeting was held to-day.

All the members were present except Seward and Everts. The former was represented by Assistant Secretary Hunter, and the latter by J. Hubley Ashton, Assistant Attorney-General. Whisky Meters.

OIL CITY, Pa., July 31 .- A most destructive fire commenced here at a very early hour this morning. At 11 o'clock about fifty buildings had already been destroyed. Lockhart & Fisher's sheds are reported entirely consumed. The fire is still raging fearfully, promising to envelop the entire business portion of the town. There will probably be no shipment of oil from the oil regions for several days, which sion extensive speculation. Pool Brothers' entire yard was burnt up. Fisher's yard, No. 1, together with that of Carter, Thompson & Co., and Lockhart & may considerably affect the market, and occa-

Trevor's tanks were entirely consumed. The buildings on both sides of the street from the Post Office to the National Hotel and down to the river, are all burnt, including the offices of the Western Union and Pacific and Atlantic Telegraph Companies.

Later Particulars. Fisher's yard, No. 2, is safe. Nearly the whole town on the west side of the creek is SHANGHAE, July 4 .- The news just received from Japan, indicates that the civil war is drawing to a close. A compromise has been effected between the Daimios of the North and South, which will probably lead to a speedy termination of hostilities between the Mikado and the Tycoon. LONDON, July 31-4 P. M .- Parliament was prorogued this afternoon by royal commission.

THE OIL CITY FIRE.

Further Particulars of the Disaster.

Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph On City, Pa., July 31 .- At 7 o'clock, this morning, some oil from an engine took fire in the yard of Parker, Thompson & Co. This soon communicated with some tank cars on the track of the railroad, and with the adjoining building, sweeping everything before it from the Post Office to the National Hotel, and from the foot of the hill to the river's edge, burning several boats.

The amount of damage cannot now be correctly estimated. Among the heaviest losers are Pool Brothers, Lockhart & Freer, and J. A. Christy's drug store.

The engine yard of Clark & Goodwin, containing eight or ten new and second-hand engines, was destroyed; also the Jones House. Both the telegraph offices, and a great number of other buildings met the same fate.

The timely arrival of the fire department of Franklin, with their steamers, contributed largely to the saving of the lower portion of the town.

It is impossible to tell at the present time the quantity of oil burnt.

The tracks of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad were destroyed but workmen were engaged in repairing them, and expectto have it done soon. A great amount of goods were removed from the burning building, and afterwards consumed; the fire spreading so rapidly that their further removal was impossible.

A heavy rain commenced to tall soon after the fire was got under control. There were three tanks in the flames. One of them was full, the others partly filled. The opinion is that not much oil was burned. The tanks are still standing, and it is supposed that they are all right. It is impossible to reach them on account of the burning timber. LATER FROM WASHINGTON.
